Nominations For Teacher Award Open

Students may nominate their choice teacher for the "Distinguished Teacher Award" by obtaining a nomination blank at the University Center Information Desk.

THE AWARD, sponsored by the General Alumni Association of the University of Tennessee, will be made by nominations from the faculty and representative samples of students and alumni.

Any teacher nominated will be eligible for further selection procedures. Final selection is based on the teacher's classroom performance.

THIS IS THE third year the award has been given. Prof. Wayne Chester of the Liberal Arts Department was the 1966 winner, and Miss Mary Flowers of the Home Economics Department was the 1967 recipient.

Policy Forum Set Tonight

A faculty-student forum on "Administrative & Social Policies at UTM" sponsored by the Student Government, will be held tonight at 7:30 in the University Center Ballroom.

PRESENTED to promote student involvement in campus affairs, the forum will consist of questions directed from students to administrative, faculty, and Student government representatives.

Changes in social and administrative policy could possibly be effected if enough student interest is shown tonight.

VP Humphrey Visits Area Tomorrow

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is scheduled to arrive in Jackson tomorrow for the city's "Salute To Education," which will honor the four schools of higher learning located there.

Governor Buford Ellington, a likely favorite son candidate at the Democratic convention, will also be on hand.

However, Glenn Rainey, general chairman of the event, said the appearances are of no political significance.

Travis Wammack To Perform Friday

Travis Wammack, one of the leading guitarists in the South, will play for a dance here Friday night.

Wammack, famous for his recording of "Scratchy" several years ago, has just returned from a tour in Florida and will soon be leaving for a tour in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Tickets are now on sale in the C-D dormitory. They cost $2.00 per couple in advance and $2.25 at the door. The dance will be from 8 till 12 in the University Center Ballroom.

NETWORK TV MAN—NBC news correspondent Robert Goralski talked about some of his editorial experiences and reflected on aspects of the current news scene in his lecture in the University Center Monday night.

BSU Beauty Revue Deadline Set

Entries for the Baptist Student Union's fourth annual Womanless Beauty Revue are still being accepted at the BSU Director's office. The deadline for submitting an entry is Sunday evening at 5:00.

The Revue will be held in the Women's Gym Tuesday evening at 7:00. Admission will be $1.00.

The contestants will be scored in three divisions: talent, sports clothes and evening wear. The winner will receive a trophy and the title of Miss Spring Beauty. All proceeds will go to the BSU Summer Missions Fund.

FOREIGN EDUCATOR — Roberto Romero (center), director of the National School of Agriculture, Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Central America, visited the campus yesterday. The institution of which he is director is a dormitory high school of 165 boys who work on the farm in the mornings and attend classes in the afternoons. They grow the food for the school. Dr. Harold J. Smith, head of UTM's Department of Agriculture (left), and W. O. Warren (right), coordinator of State-Federal Programs for the Tennessee Department of Education, conducted Senor Romero on a tour of the campus and the Experiment Station farm.

Run Off Election Will Be Held Tomorrow.

Record Turnout Elects Next Year's SG Officers

Next year's student government officers were chosen yesterday in a campus-wide election.

Steve Davis, this year's vice-president, was elected president. Bobby Mayfield from Humboldt will serve as vice-president.

The secretary of affairs position will be filled by Linda Austin of Paris.

Kenneth Becker from Mansfield won more than the required 50 per cent of votes in a three-candidate bid for Secretary. (Continued on page eight)

Network Newsmen Notes U.S. Position

By Barbara Whitaker

NBC News Correspondent Robert Goralski, a specialist in State Department, Pentagon, and White House affairs, told those attending his Lecture Series talk in the University Center Monday night that the last two months have been perhaps "the most momentous in history."

GORALSKI talked about the credibility gap, Vietnam, the "Pueblo" incident, and the coming presidential election.

"The credibility gap is coming to roost," the veteran television newsmen said. He noted the gap is wider between the press and the Pentagon concerning Vietnam policies than the rift between the press and politics. The Pentagon's false figures on some war statistics started the breach.

"There is no news program put together on radio or television that is completely objective," Goralski said concerning media's role in the credibility gap arising between viewers and the mass media.

GORALSKI SEES no near prospect to ending the Vietnam war. He predicts that Paris will probably be the site for preliminary peace talks. He used the term "stalemate" in describing the current situation with both sides realizing that a clear-cut military victory is impossible. "The solution to the future government of Vietnam lies in three choices," Goralski said.

THE FIRST political party, the Buddhists, would desire a neutral country. The Viet Cong is the second party choice. The third force would be an incorporation of the Buddhists, the military men, and the National Liberation Front. Compromise is the correspondent's answer in Vietnam peace talks.

"Television news editors have had a tendency to play up the shoot 'em-up-stuff," Goralski said concerning the coverage of the war action. In some of the editors' defense, he stated that deadlines often force them to run film that has had little or no editing.

The presence of TV camera crews does not cause riots, Goralski emphasized. Cameras do not always inspire publicity stories. He cited the Pentagon break-in as an example. The incident could have been covered on video tape but was not.

MOBILE TV units are used, he said, with extreme caution, depending on the situation, since they have incited disturbances. "There is no attempt to make news," Goralski said.

Goralski has worked for NBC News since 1961 and has covered the Middle East war, Vietnam war, Dominican Republic revolution, Laotian war, and scores of other overseas assignments.

HE APPEARED in "White Paper on U.S. Foreign Policy" and "The Hearings of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee," two recent Emmy-award winning programs for NBC News. One of his most recent assignments was reporting the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. While in Pakistan, he assisted in establishing that country's first school of journalism, at the University of Karachi.

"Truth may be the solution to the 'Pueblo' incident," Goralski answered when asked his opinion about the "Pueblo" story.

Supreme Court Votes For Public Censorship

Parents have long lamented the fact that they have had no control over what their children read and view in magazines. But the US Supreme Court told the states Monday that parents had a right and even a duty to supervise their children's reading matter where sex is involved.

"THE WELL-BEING of its children is of course a subject within a state's constitutional power to regulate," the court ruled. Besides parents, teachers and others with the responsibilities of rearing children are also entitled to the support of the law, according to the court.

One of the three dissenting voters of the court, Justice Abe Fortas, criticized the decision for not ruling whether "girlie" magazines, "however tasteless and tawdry they may be," are obscene for children.

PARENTS who support their children are swayed by sexy movie scenes on television have always had the ability to turn off the set.

Last Sunday a law went into effect where boxholders may decide for themselves what is pornographic.

Grad Students Applying In Canada Increase

American college graduates are applying for admission to Canadian graduate schools in record numbers this year.

The U.S. applications are up from seven percent of the total a year ago to 23 percent at present at the University of Toronto.

THE DEAN of graduate students at the University of British Columbia, Ian McTaggart-Cowan, pointed out recently that many of the American applicants are from the top two and three percent of their class.

"We've talked a lot about brain drain," McTaggart-Cowan told the New York Times News Service. "Maybe this is the way to reverse it."

But the principle fear of the Canadian graduate schools is that if they accept a large number of Americans, they risk the possibility that many of the students may have changed their political convictions by next fall or the Vietnam conflict may be concluded by then.

OF COURSE the war has been the major reason for the rise in the number of U.S. students going north. These young men feel that in Canada they will be able to finish their graduate studies without interruption by the draft.

Enrollment in a Canadian school does not protect students from being drafted. In fact, some local boards will no doubt find such acts unpatriotic and offensive enough to merit immediate induction.

The advantage some applicants seek is the ability to reject the selective service summons. Canada does not recognize draft evasion as an extraditable offense, and graduate students can easily qualify as permanent immigrants.

HOWEVER, the major flow in the plan involves re-entry in the U.S. The leaders of the American anti-draft organization in Toronto tell prospective immigrants that they must expect never to return to America, even for a visit, because of the probability of prosecution.

"I'LL ADMIT IT'S DIFFERENT - BUT SOMETIMES YOU CAN LOSE YOUR READER IF YOU GET TOO CLEVER!"

Dear Editor:

In regard to the letter published last week supposedly by Virginia Vaughan and Cathy Strickland concerning women's rights, I would like to say that neither of us knew about the letter until after its publication.

We were indeed sorry to learn that some students here on campus have nothing better to do than to write ridiculous letters and then forge other students' names to them. Both Virginia and I deeply regret if last week's radical article caused any hard feelings around campus.

Sincerely,

Cathy Strickland
Virginia Vaughan

Dear Miss Vaughan and Miss Strickland,

It is indeed sad when someone is cowardly enough to forge another's name to his opinion. Unfortunately, the staff lacks the time and personnel necessary to verify that signatures on all letters received are those of the author.

THE IDEA that dorm hours are a violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 is not a new idea. Whoever wrote the letter must have read - or more likely someone explained to him - that there are test cases in at least one northern state.

However, the idea of complete elimination of dorm hours is extremely "radical" for this area of the country. The party responsible for the forgery was not mature enough to realize the potential repercussions which the letter would have on your reputation.

Dear Editors:

We want to express our deepest regret and heartfelt sympathy over the tragic death of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. It is indeed ironic that THIS country would foster the twisted mind that would assassinate a man who had worked so diligently for understanding between the races.

We can only hope that the work for which this good man gave his life will continue. It is our belief that the nonviolence which Dr. King taught is the only real answer to the racial problems which today plague our nation.

We hope that while we are united in mourning the death of a great leader, we can find some common ground where we can resolve our difficulties. It is our prayer that some day this country will be united in brotherhood.

Dear Editors:

I would like to reply to Barbara Bowls' letter in the April 10 issue.

I can agree with her on only one point. That point is that we definitely lost by Dr. King's assassination. Simply because it did give the civil rights move a martyr and it was pre-meditated murder. Other than this our opinions vary greatly.

To begin with I play football and I'm proud of it. I agree that the United States flag should not have been flown at half mast ...

A democracy is founded on government by the people. That government by definition has to be by a majority. Surely the minority's rights have to be considered but not given precedence over the majority. That is a violation of democracy. I think Dr. King had some good ideas.

I also believe he was being exploited by the militants and I can feel no sympathy for them. By the word "them" I mean Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown only as the beginning of a long list. I believe they should be exiled as traitors ... Force isn't the way to get human rights.

The Negroes have been mistreated but they are beginning to come into their own, but only the ones who have been socialized and taken have made some

The Righteous Brothers proved Friday that a successful musical sound doesn't necessarily die with the loss of an individual. Jimmy Walker fills Bill Medley's spot with surprising success.

TWO AND A half months ago Walker and Bobby Hatfield joined talents and formed a new Righteous Brothers duo. Since then they have performed a couple of dozen times, with increased efficiency in each outing, according to Hatfield.

Time Magazine called the duo "blue-eyed soul brothers," who sing in the James Brown blues-rock tradition. In fact, their name came from the "Sunday-go-to-meeting" phrase, "Man, that was really righteous, brothers."

BUT IF they have imitated the rhythm and blues "Brown Sound," they have sophisticated it somewhat. They performed here with the backing of an eight-piece band, but an orchestra of at least 18 pieces is their normal accompaniment for road shows.

effort to take a place in our dynamic society. The rioters and looters are hurting the Negro cause and President Johnson isn't helping either.

With the passage of the Civil Rights Bill and the onslaught of unchecked riots, I feel many Negroes have taken the attitude that they can do as they please. They've forgotten to quote a famous and very explanatory quote "Your rights end where the other fellow's nose begins." This quote also states a basic principle of democracy, freedom and pursuit of happiness ends where someone else's begins. Many Negroes have shown they do not respect other's rights and it is the job of the majority to put a stop to riots and especially looting.

Has President Johnson done that? I hardly think so, when on television we saw Washington, D. C. burned and looters pass federal guards with loot and dare the troops to do anything about it.

I don't feel that violence will solve the Negroes' plight and Johnson's passiveness is just as detrimental to the U. S. as Stokely Carmichael's militarism is.

Mrs. Bowls said Dr. King had been lauded by our President, and it follows that he should be lauded, also. How can you induct that conclusion?

I certainly can't, when Johnson worked to do away with the Senate Committee on Un-American activities and signed a bill passed by Congress to halt required registration

Post Panhell Party Pooped

Following the Panhellympic games Saturday afternoon, about 100 fraternity men held a "beer party" on some private property just off Mt. Pella Road, and the landowner called the police.

ALTHOUGH no arrests were made, a deputy sheriff took names of those present. The landowner requested that some of the fraternity men meet with him at the police station Monday afternoon which they did. The property owner asked that each of those present at the party pay $1 each to cover damages and that the area which he charged was littered with trash be cleaned up in lieu of his not pressing trespassing charges.

THE DECISION by the fraternity men as to what they will do was not known at press time.

"There was almost no mess because the beer was in kegs, and damages were slight, if any," one of the fraternity men said.

New Library Offers Latest In Student Conveniences

By Diane Craft

The new Paul Meek Library opened Thursday, April 11, after many untimely delays.

THE LIBRARY is equipped with the latest conveniences in library science. Special rooms have been designated for various needs of the student. There are six soundproof study rooms where groups of students can have discussions without disturbing others.

Five carpeted rooms are furnished either with stereos or just to benefit the student. Typing rooms, leisure reading areas, and viewing rooms are also available to accommodate the student.

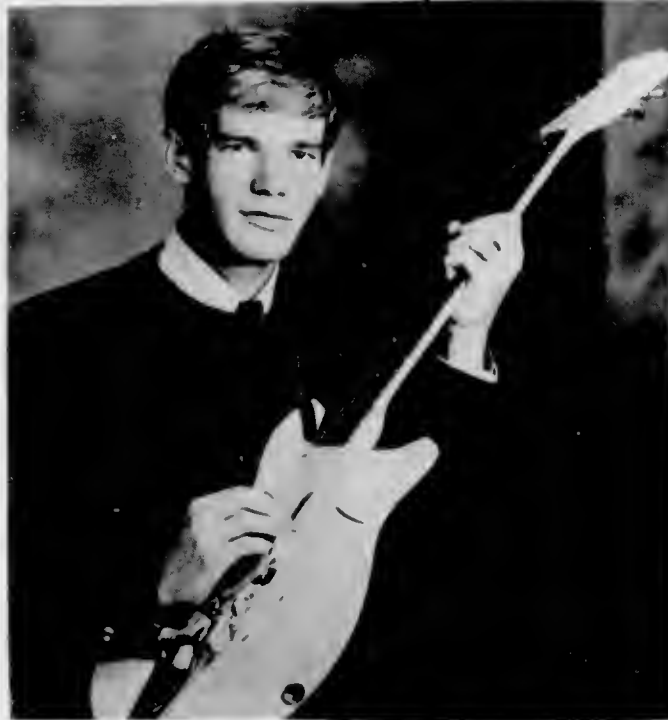

STILL ANOTHER example of the modern conveniences offered are carrels or individual ly partitioned study tables that have replaced library tables.

"We now have 60,000 volumes and we have room for expansion to the capacity of 100,000 volumes," Miss Mary Ellis Hall, head librarian, said.

For this reason students pass through turnstiles as they enter the building and exit past a checkout desk. The librarians hope that this procedure will do away with any problem of unauthorized books and periodicals being taken away from the library.

Miss Hall also said the lights that flash on at ninety five are only a warning to give students the opportunity to check out books by ten.

STRING ARTIST-- Travis Wammack, a nationally known guitarist, will play for a four-hour dance this Friday in the University Center.

Walker Chosen 'Best Freshman'

At the fourth ROTC drill of the quarter, held last Thursday afternoon, Cadet Harold Walker of the 2nd battalion was chosen Best Freshman by Cadet Colonel Jim Vaughan, brigade commander.

CADET WALKER, a business administration major from Germantown and a graduate of the Memphis University School, was selected from among 600 M. S. I cadets on the basis of his appearance, manual of arms proficiency and knowledge of military subjects. He will receive 30 merits and serve as Colonel's Orderly at tomorrow's drill.

Cadet Walker and other Best Freshmen selected at the weekly drills will compete for Best Freshman of the Quarter on May 2 during the annual Federal Inspection that will be held on the University gridiron.

EXHIBIT PRELUDE--Paintings entered in the First Northwest Tennessee Spring Artshow are on exhibit in the University Center Lounge.

Spring Art Shown In Univ. Center

By Marcia McDonald

The First Annual Northwest Tennessee Spring Art Show officially opened Monday in the University Center and is scheduled to be shown through May 5.

THE PURPOSE of this project which is sponsored by the Department of Education is to give children from a nine-county area in northwest Tennessee a chance to show their ability. It is also hoped that this program will serve to build up the art departments of the schools in this area and encourage the enrollment of more art teachers who are badly needed.

According to Mr. Thel Taylor, who is spearheading the project, there have been 800 entries thus far in the three major divisions, which encompass students from the first grade through college. In each division entries must qualify in one of four categories: painting, sculpture, ceramics, and graphics. First, Second, and Third Place ribbons will be awarded to winners in each division following the judging sometime this week by Miss Altje Vandenburg of the Home Economics Department.

AS YET, many of the entries have not been hung or displayed because such a vast amount of material has been received over the expected amount that limited space has made it impossible to display everything immediately.

Regional Opportunity Institute To Be Conducted On Campus May 1-2

A two-day "Regional Youth Opportunity Institute" will be conducted here May 1-2, Dr. Archie R. Dykes, vice president and chancellor, announced Monday.

The purpose of the institute is to bring together community leaders and professional personnel from Benton, Carroll, Crockett, Dyer, Gibson, Henry, Lake, Obion and Weakley counties to explore the needs and opportunities of youth in northwestern Tennessee.

GUEST SPEAKERS will include J. Howard Warf, commissioner, State Department of Education; Dr. Nat Winston, Jr., commissioner, State Department of Mental Health; Kenneth G. Turner, judge of Juvenile Court, Memphis; James Alexander, Governor's Staff Director, Division of Industrial Development; Frank Prins Jr., president of the Greenfield Division of the Kellwood Company; Charlie M. Dunn, assistant commissioner for Vocational - Technical Education, State Department of Education, and Dr. Glenn S. Gallien, head, Department of Education here.

Director of the institute is James Hadden, assistant professor of education.

MR. HADDEN said officials and other individuals concerned with the opportunities and problems of youth in the area are being invited and encouraged to attend the institute. All interests and opinions on the subject are being sought.

To facilitate the study of the problems involved, a "Directory of Social Services for Youth" has been compiled and published by the University. The directory is part of the project sponsored by UTM under a grant provided under Title I, The Higher Education Act of 1965. Listed in the publication are the agencies, organizations, offices and personnel that provide services of any kind to youth, ages 1-21, in the nine-county area of Northwest Tennessee.

THE SURVEY for the directory involved contacting hundreds of organizations and individuals in the area, Mr. Hadden said. The research was done by J. R. Alewine, assistant professor of sociology and Michael Clark, instructor in sociology on campus. Copies of the directory will be distributed at the sessions of the institute.

of Communists. To me Johnson is un-American in his activities and is detrimental to me as an American.

In conclusion I can say Dr. King had, or shall we say that he professed publicly, what I feel were good ideas. But his acts and ideas were exploited by the militants to their own means.

By any stretch of the imagination you cannot justify the means by the end. I can't say Dr. King did or did not work with the militants. I can say his moves were countered and recoured to suit others and he let himself fall to their mode.

The final addition is in the Department of Physical Education. Mr. Roger Shore, who will serve as physical education instructor, received his Bachelor of Science degree at UTM and his masters degree from Memphis State University. He comes here after teaching several years in the public schools of Shelby County.

IN ADDITION, some of our own seniors, Brenda Sellers, James Milton, and Richard B. Jarrett will be returning as graduate students to serve as lab teaching assistants.

History Society Plans Initial Meeting

An organizational meeting of the University Historical Society will be held April 30 in Room 8 of the Old Science Building. All people interested in joining the society are urged to attend.

REQUIREMENTS to belong in the society are to have either a major or minor in history with a 3.0 in history courses or have at least nine quarter hours of history and be taking a history course with an overall average of 2.0.

Planned functions for the Historical Society will include student-faculty panel discussions on major historical questions, guest speakers on current events, faculty presentation of papers and lectures and combination student-faculty forums.

FACULTY members are invited to attend and will be considered honorary members in the Society.

APRIL AND HER "TIGER"—April Stevens and a volunteered admirer from the audience entertained Friday night during the Righteous Brothers' concert held in the Field House.

Experimental Barn Installed

By Gerald Hunter

An ultra-modern dairy unit and a forage and feed research barn is now undergoing the finishing touches at the Experimental Station here.

THE DAIRY unit will consist of a modern milking parlor with fully automatic feeding and milking equipment. The milking herd will be increased from 80 to 100 head.

Besides the milking parlor there are two freestall barns, two haybarns, and a silo with an automatic silage bunk.

FEED research is another important factor in the new facilities. An experimental barn for the testing of different forages and roughages is also in the complex.

This barn will have a capacity of 26 cows in the stalls. Half of these stalls are designed for Jersey cows and the other half for Holsteins.

TWO fistulated cows will be included in the experiments and feed tests. A fistula is a device inserted in the animals stomach so the contents may be removed for examination.

A small laboratory will be apart of the facilities of this barn to aid in the experiments.

REPLACEMENT heifers for the milking herd are raised on the farm. These heifers will be housed in an adjoining barn that will hold 40 head.

These facilities are expected to be in use sometime in June.

Daydreams Are Important

Daydreaming has been deemed an aid in preventing errors. Dr. Jerome L. Singer has found that fantasies are an important part of psychological adjustment.

THE NEW York City College professor of psychology, who has been studying daydreams for 10 years under a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, believes that the fantasies are a valuable asset which should be encouraged.

A good daydreamer has the ability to pretest a situation before it occurs. According to Singer, "He is better able to plan his future because he can try out a plan and weigh the consequences before he has a move."

SINGER'S study, which was published in the current issue of Psychology Today, found that nearly all adults daydream to some extent, though the sexes differ in subject matter.

Singer also suggests that Negroes, Italians, and Jews daydream far more often than Germans, Irishmen, and Anglo-Saxons. The psychologist contends that the frequency of such fantasies "strikingly reflects the pattern of immigration of the various groups."

Zoned Parking Is Likely To Begin Next Fall

By Nancy Dunagan

Dr. Jack Mays, coordinator of development on campus spoke to the Senate April 16 about the planned expansions.

THE PARKING problem was discussed by Dr. Mays and Mr. White, his assistant. They said that the zoned parking will probably be in effect next fall due to increased growth of the campus. They said that 822 students commute of the 1470 cars registered.

"The Fine Arts Building, which will be built on the EPS parking lot, will eliminate 307 spaces," Mr. White said. "There are only 31 places at Clement for the 76 cars registered. The orchard behind B-Y and the area behind Paul Meek library will be paved parking."

THE SENATE has surveyed the parking problem, especially the confusion in A-B dorms.

"Plans to pave Hannings Lane with lights, landscaping, and trees are being made now," Dr. Mays added.

The men said that the Humanities Bldg. and Atrium dorm are scheduled for completion fall quarter, weather permitting. Future plans include construction of the Chancellor's home an addition to P.E. building, new R.O.T.C. Bldg, an instructional pool, a new track, and an addition to the EPS.

THE OLD WALKS across campus will be removed while major landscaping in the quadrangle will include walkways running north and south, according to Dr. Mays.

Signs on the four highways to Martin will have UTM on them, and 50 signs will be placed in other locations to promote our campus, according to Dr. Mays.

DR. MAYS said that growth on this campus is beyond limits, and "it looks like 3,400-3,500 next year."

More than 239,000 mobile homes were sold in the United States last year, a 10 per cent gain over the 1966 total.

tary of communications. A run-off election will be held tomorrow between Robert Briggs, from Memphis, and Rodney Emerson, from Ripley, for secretary of finance.

According to Ken Yager, results of Time Magazine's Choice '68 poll, also voted taken along with yesterday's election, will be known as soon as the magazine completes the contest.

The last election this year will be the Senator election May 14. Petitions must be submitted to Wanda McKee or the University Center Information Desk by April 30.

the third inning.

"WALKER played a real fine ballgame," Coach James Swope remarked, "We were all very happy to beat such a good team as Southeast Missouri."

After their game with Lambuth tomorrow, the Vols will travel to Memphis for a doubleheader with Southwestern University Saturday.

Orange-White Game Set

The Vols of the gridiron are on the move again toward another winning season.

Coach Robert Carroll said 73 men are currently participating in spring football practice which began on March 30.

"IF OUR MEN expect to measure up to last year's squad," Coach Carroll remarked, "they'll have to work hard."

One of the biggest problems the team faces is finding a kicker to replace Lee Mayo, who last year led both small and large colleges throughout the nation in extra points and field goals.

However, the major problem, according to Coach Carroll, is replacing six starters from the offensive squad. The team also lost one defensive starter.

CARROLL added, "We are concentrating on our passing attack at the present time."

Spring practice will come to a close with the Orange-White game on May 4.
